HOLD YOUR HEAD A LITTLE HIGHER

Glass Works Deal Closed and the Contract Signed.

WILL BEGIN WORK NEXT WEEK

The Plant Will Be in Operation Within Three Months if Weather Is Favorable.

Coshocton can bow gracefully to the board of trade, for what promises to be the best work ever done by that body was completed this morning when the contract for the glass works was signed by E. K. Sober and E. G. Vanhorn for the company and Charles F. Gosser, vice president, and Robert Boyd, secretary, for the board of trade.

When Mr. Sober and Mr. Vanhorn left the city Tuesday, they took with them a copy of the contract in order that their attorney might examine it and see that it was regular and fair. He was satisfied with the document, and the gentlemen arranged to come to Coshocton and close the deal without delay. They reached here Wednesday evening, and there was activity this morning. The gentlemen were taken to the rolling mill site in the board of trade second addition and went over the ground on which the glass works will be built. They were satisfied with the reservation made for the company, and returned to the office of Secretary Boyd where the contract was formally signed a few minutes before noon.

The gentlemen returned to Canton this afternoon, and will be in Coshocton to make a start next week. Work on the plant will begin at once, and it will be completed within three months if the weather will permit building operations. The company is anxious to have the main building under roof as soon as possible. The cost of the factory is not given out, but it is said its cost will not be less than $25,000. The factory will be modern in every particular, and will be arranged in order that the greatest product can be obtained with the least labor. Its output to start will be 100 gross per day.

It is not known how many men will be brought here from a distance, but the number will be enough to add materially to the city's population.

TO AMEND THE ORDINANCE.

Doctor McNaughton Will Have a Clause on Chickens.

The annoyance many persons are compelled to endure because chickens are permitted to run at large in the city during certain seasons of the year has prompted Doctor McNaughton to move an amendment to the long misdemeanor ordinance now before council. He would have chickens kept within bounds during the entire year, and the section will be added to the ordinance when next it comes up in council. Many persons have complained and the doctor has their hearty support in his effort to improve the sanitary condition of streets and alleys where chickens are prone to wander.

DELIVERING POLES

Along the Line of the New Tuscarawas Electric Railway.

There is no longer any doubt that the Newcomerstown, White City & Uhrichsville Electric railway will be built. The company has been organized, the surveying is done and ties and poles are being distributed along the route. An order has been given for 30,000 feet of white oak timber to be used in the construction of the power house, and arrangements are being made to let the contract for grading.

The road will pass through Newcomerstown to the Coshocton county line, and it is said an extension to West Lafayette and ultimately to Coshocton is being considered.

FOUND DEAD IN BED.

Heart Disease Carried off a Well Known North Bend Woman.

Mrs. McCune, wife of John McCune, Sr., was found dead in bed Wednesday at the home of her son John at North Bend not far from Plainfield. Death is believed to have been the result of heart disease. Mrs. McCune was an estimable lady and well known to many persons in that part of the county.

WILL BE OPEN.

Business Houses Will Not Close Wednesday, Thursday and Friday Evening.

The recommendation of the committee of the Retail Merchants' association for next week, as published in THE AGE Wednesday, seems to have been misunderstood. It is announced that retail business houses will close during Wednesday afternoon from noon until 6 o'clock, but will be open in the evening. They will also be open Thursday and Friday the entire day and evening. The committee is made up of George S. Caton, H. A. Wisenburg, C. L. Walker, Geo. M. Gray, C. F. Gosser, and J. J. Rose.

RUNNING ITS COURSE.

The Diphtheria Scare Is Abating and Fewer Stories Are Heard.

The diphtheria scare seems to be running its course, but not with the sensational trimmings that characterized it a few days ago. As the facts become known and the people realize that even though new cases are reported, the afflicted ones are recovering the scare is losing its force. Only one death has resulted from the disease, and the health authorities are confident there are no more than ten known cases in the city.

COSHOCTON WRITES LETTERS.

Its Postoffice Receipts are Far Above Cambridge.

The receipts of the Coshocton postoffice for last year were over $16,000, a remarkable showing when compared with other offices in Ohio. Cambridge with a population of 3,241, as given by the last census, shows the gross receipts of the postoffice to be $12,433. Coshocton's population as all the people know was given by the enumerators as 6,473.

WANT PETITIONS NOW

Council Anxious for Information on Paving.

TO BE READY EARLY NEXT YEAR

Cherry Street Is in Good Condition, and Fourth Street Will Probably Be Presented Soon.

If there are people in Coshocton who expect to have the streets on they which live paved next year council would like to know all about it and know it without delay.

The delay and inconvenience occasioned by starting the work of street improvement after the pretty weather of summer is gone has been the subject of much discussion in council and out of it, but the responsibility can not as a rule be laid to that body. Time is required to push through a paving project, and weeks that should see the work progressing often pass with nothing done because the required legal form is being followed out. This usually sees fall and bad weather at hand before the contract is complete, and the general public is prone to object to the inconvenience to which it is subjected.

For this reason council wants all persons having paving petitions in hand, or who expect to have them next year, to proceed with the work at once and present the petitions at the first meeting after the necessary number of signatures have been secured. The preliminaries can then be passed through during the winter, and when summer comes the contractor can go to work with the assurance that he will not be hampered by bad weather.

The paving projects at present being considered provide for a large amount of work next year. The Cherry street ordinance has been given its first reading, and will be passed long before work can be done on the contract. That insures the completion of the paving before next fall. The Chestnut and Main extensions are short, but they too may go over until next year. A plan is on foot to pave Fourth, and it is probable the petition will be presented to council in the near future. Many property owners are anxious to have the work done, and want the preliminaries passed through before summer begins. It will be one of the most important improvements in the city next year.

A DISTINGUISHED PARTY.

Of Which M. W. Denman, Formerly of Coshocton, Was One.

The Mexican Herald, published in the City of Mexico, in its issue of Sept 25, has the following:

"Mr. Isaac M. Hutchinson gave a small dinner party last evening in honor of Governor Francisco Canton, of the state of Yucatan, and some other distinguished gentlemen from that section. Mr. Hutchinson, during his recent trip to Yucatan was royally entertained and he took the advantage of the presence of the governor and party in this city to reciprocate their hospitality. The gentlemen present in addition to the host were Governor Canton, Senator Francisco Canton R., Colonel Manuel Gomez, aide-de-camp to the governor, and M. W. Denman, a prominent civil engineer."

Mr. Denman is the son of F. D. Denman of this city, and with his wife now resides in the City of Mexico.

THE NEW PRECINCTS

Election Board Decides on the Boundaries.

MAIN IS THE DIVIDING LINE

As Far As Possible, But One Does Not Touch It—Two Small Precincts Were Created.

The county board of elections Thursday evening completed the work of dividing Tuscarawas township into six voting precincts. Main street is used as a general dividing line as far as possible, but one precinct does not touch it. It was the purpose of the board to follow the law and give 300 votes to each precinct, but this was found impossible. Two precincts will be short of that number.

The First precinct is made up of all the territory north of Main and west of North Fourth and includes Canal Lewisville. It contains more than the required number of votes.

The Second is bounded by Main and South Fifth and includes all the territory to the township line. It will not have 300 votes.

The Third is by no means regular. The line is from North Fourth on Main to North Seventh, along that street to Chestnut, to North Eighth to the line. It is one of the small precincts and has less than 300 votes.

The Fourth is bounded by Orange, Cambridge and South Fifth streets.

The Fifth is made up of all the territory lying north of Main and East Chestnut and east of North Seventh and North Eighth.

The Sixth begins with South Fifth at Main and extends south to Orange and east to the township line. All persons living east of Cambridge are in this precinct.

As stated in THE AGE this arrangement is only made for the November election, and will be changed when council divides the city into wards.

DISCONTINUED

Will Be the Crop Bulletins After This Week.

The weekly crop bulletins will be discontinued after this week.

The temperature has been higher than the normal during the week. Most crops were suffering for rain and in some parts of the southwest the ground was too dry for plowing and preparing for wheat seeding. Wells, streams and cisterns were very low.

The weather has been favorable for harvesting and corn cutting and the time has been well improved. In northern districts the late corn is just getting ripe enough for cutting, but in most parts of the state much of the corn is in shock. Husking has begun in a few places.

UNION LABEL

Steamer Founders.

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 3.—The steamer Richilieu, owned by the Richilieu and Ontario Navigation company, and engaged on the route between Kingston and Belleville, foundered while bound for this city. She was within three miles of port when she took a header and sank. A fairly heavy sea was running, which caused her cargo of freight to shift, and before she could be righted she filled and went down in about 60 feet of water. Her crew and passengers got ashore safely, but had narrow escapes.

British Submarine Boat.

London, Oct. 3.—The first of five submarine boats of the Holland type building at Barrow-in-Furness for the British government was launched without ceremony. She will be put through her trials in the course of a few weeks. The other four boats will be ready for launching this year.

A SEA OF SEDITION.

Kitchener, Milner and Sprigg to Discuss Cape Colony.

MARTIAL LAW ABOUT TO BE DECLARED

Fresh Drafts of Troops to Be Hurried to the Front—Extraordinary Activity on the Part of the Boers—The British Evacuate Moedwill—General Botha In Natal.

London, Oct. 3.—The situation in South Africa is the principal theme of discussion. The Standard says: "The Boers are fighting with a determination and a contempt for their own lives such as were seldom shown in the early part of the war. Their plan is to keep Lord Kitchener's army busy in the north and to give the roving commandoes in Cape Colony an opportunity to raise the Cape Dutch against Great Britain."

It is believed that the government at last recognizes the necessity of meeting the renewed Boer activity. Preparations are being made to replace Lord Kitchener's exhausted men by fresh drafts. An order has been issued rendering it impossible to obtain discharge by purchase from any of the army reserves. Sections are being prepared for mobilization.

There is further evidence of the seriousness of the situation in Cape Colony. The cape premier, Sir John Sprigg, has gone to Johannesburg to meet Lord Kitchener and Lord Milner in conference, probably on the subject of declaring martial law in cape ports.

Moedwill, the scene of the bold attack by Commandant De Lacey on Colonel Kekewich's camp, is 75 miles south of Pretoria and 15 miles west of Rustenburg. As the wounded men were being brought back to Rustenburg it looks as though Moedwill, which is close to the Magatos pass, in the Magaliesburg range, has been abandoned.

A telegram from Bloemfontein indicates that the guns Lord Kitchener reports having recovered were dug up, the Boers having buried them. A mixed column under General Kitchener, Lord Kitchener's brother, has been sent to relieve, presumably Natal, from Commandant Botha's forces. It has reached Vryheid. The casualty list shows that in the fighting at Caledon river last Friday Colonel Plummer lost 2 officers killed and 10 men killed and wounded.

Return of Chinese Court.

Peking, Oct. 3.—Dispatches from San Fu announce that the Chinese court is preparing to start about October 6. The temporary palace there is being dismantled and all the furnishings will be carried for use en route. The officials and servants will constitute a caravan numbering from 3,000 to 5,000 persons with 1,200 carts and several thousands of horses and mules that have been collected in the Sian Fu district. Two parties of officials have already started to make preparations along the line. The towns through which the court will pass are engaged in decorating temporary palaces and collecting supplies. The emperor, or the empress dowager, in his name, has issued an edict strictly commanding the officials to pay for all supplies.

Court Guarded By Militia.

Ashville, Ala., Oct. 3.—The preliminary trial here of Sheriff J. L. North of this, St. Clair county, who is charged with the murder of Walter Blankenship at this place on August 22, 1901, began under military guard of 50 selected men of the Third regiment of Birmingham, who were sent to Ashville this morning by Governor Jelks, under command of Colonel E. L. Higdon. At the trial of Jim Brown, the negro, who criminally assaulted a woman at this place on August 22, a posse of men under direction of Sheriff North, fired into a mob supposed to have been formed for the purpose of lynching Brown, fatally injuring Walter Blankenship, a well-known young man and injuring two others.

Yacht Race Agreement.

New York, Oct. 3.—At a meeting of the representatives of the Royal Ulster Yacht club and the New York Yacht club the agreement as to the day's racing was so modified that it now reads that the yachts will sail on the following dates until the series are completed: Oct. 3 and on each following day, except Sunday, provided, however, that immediately on the conclusion of the race of Oct. 3 and each subsequent race the regatta committee shall inquire of each contestant whether he is willing to start the next day, and should either contestant reply in the negative, one day shall intervene before starting the next race. Sunday shall not count as such intervening day.

Appeals For Czolgosz.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Governor Odell arrived here from Newburg and when he reached the executive chamber he was surprised to find on his desk two letters requesting him to commute to life imprisonment the sentence of Czolgosz, the murderer of President McKinley. One letter was sent by a man in Illinois and the other by a man in Maine. They were evidently written by cranks, in the opinion of the governor, and no attention will be paid to them.

Result of a Quarrel.

Dillon, Mon., Oct. 3.—D. W. Millspaugh of Chicago, formerly general solicitor for the Southern Pacific railroad, died here as the result of injuries inflicted by J. P. Bromburg. The men, who had quarreled, met while Millspaugh was on his way to a copper mine in which he was interested. They exchanged words and Bromburg struck Millspaugh with a rock.

AUTOS TERRORIZE FRANCE.

Peasants Threaten Lynch Law Against Motorists Who Scorch.

A Paris correspondent of the Pittsburg Dispatch writes that some people predict that the day is not far off when the peasantry of France will rise up in a mass against scorching motorists. In certain districts whole villages have already united in antiautomobile campaigns, the method of warfare employed consisting in strewing roads with nails and broken bottles. This has been done in Normandy, but the glass and bits of iron were found to damage the horses' feet as much as automobile tires and, moreover, rendered cycling an impossibility for the many country laborers in France who ride to and from their work. So that plan of campaign had to be given up. Now peasants in some parts contemplate resorting to nothing less than lynch law. In certain districts villagers seriously talk of going about with fowling pieces in hand and winging motorists who tear through hamlets and small towns at fifty miles an hour.

The temper of Jacques Bonhomme has been roused to such an extent that he may very well one day carry out his threat.

A WHITE MOOSE SEEN.

Rare Curiosity Reported by a Party of Hunters In Maine.

A great curiosity is reported to have been seen a few days ago by a party of hunters in camp in the woods at Mosquito narrows, Moxie pond, near the forks of the Kennebec river, says a dispatch from Augusta, Me., to the New York Sun. It was a white moose and was seen three miles from the camp.

Three members of the camping party were out looking for birds when they came across the animal. He seemed to be about as large as a two-year-old steer. He had no horns and was perfectly white. One of the party held out his hand and called to the moose. The animal approached to within four feet of the hunter and stood for ten minutes watching him, while the rest of the party looked him over. They were unable to discover any dark marks upon him.

All the time this young white moose stood before them the old cow moose was only a few rods away. After a time both creatures bounded away and were lost in the woods. Woodsmen say that while at rare intervals white deer have been seen they never before heard of a white moose.

A Hunting Novelty.

A novel idea for sportsmen seems to be of Portuguese origin. An electric lamp is placed on the collar of the hunting dog, and this frightens foxes and badgers from their burrows when the dog enters.

Uncle Sam to Columbia.

Say, Columbia,
You are the flagship
Of the republic today,
And don't you forget it.
I've got my eagle eye,
My American eagle eye,
On you.
And you hadn't better
Black it for me
By letting that Irishman
Lead you down the homestretch.
See?
Of course the Shamrock
Is a lovely flower;
But, Columbia,
You're the gem of this ocean,
And it's up to you
To keep its brilliance blazing
In the forefront of the fray
For the cup and what it stands for,
Like a star that leads the way.
Old Glory and the eagle
And the glorious Fourth and me
Are rooting with the bleachers
For you and victory,
And if you slip a backstay
Or anything like that,
Gee rosalem, Columby,
Where shall we all be at?
Now spread your sails and hustle,
I've put you there to win,
And when you've licked the Shamrock
Go back and tow her in
Just to show
We're no hard feelings
For Sir Thomas,
A good fellow.

HAWKES WAS WROTH

Resents an Imputation In the Heistand Investigation.

QUESTIONED ABOUT HUSH MONEY.

The Major Declares That If Anyone Dare Father the Accusation He Will Brand Him a Liar—General Corbin Undergoes an Examination. Proceedings In Hemp Case.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Major Hawkes was recalled by Heistand investigating committee to testify as to the "to whom it may concern" letter. The original draft was different from that first presented to the committee. The titles of the men signing the letter were not upon the original draft. Major Hawkes could positively remember but one unimportant change in the letter before signing, but was confident that "very material alterations" had been made, among them the final clause intimating that his appointment would be a wise one from a departmental point of view, a fact which he contended called for titles to the signatures.

Counsel for Heistand, in an elaborate cross-examination, endeavored to establish the fact that the several papers in the case had been copied in Hawkes's office, but the replies admitted only that the copies had been made by Major Howard the night before the agreement was entered into. Major Hawkes said he had endeavored to sell the whole story to New York papers and likewise had unsuccessfully offered to sell to the national Democratic committee prior to the election for $300 and "other considerations." The offer was not accepted. Hawkes said he then withdrew the papers upon assurance from a government official that his case would be taken up and satisfactorily settled. He was asked if he had not approached Lawrence S. Holt of North Carolina and offered to hush up the case for a consideration of $500. This question was asked at the suggestion of Colonel Heistand and was noted by Hawkes, who replied in heat that "$500 would not hush up anything. Any man that says so is a liar and I will so brand him."

Major Hawkes said that he never learned from any of the parties named, Boyd, Allen, Corbin and Meiklejohn, that they were in the company, all such representations coming from Heistand.

General H. C. Corbin, adjutant general, who was named in the resolution as one of the parties to the deal, testified that Colonel Heistand made a general statement to him concerning the organization of a company and and asked him if he would like to invest in it. He thought favorably of the concern, but two or three days later he told Heistand that he had no money to invest in any company. Some time afterward Assistant Secretary Allen came to him and said that a man named Hawkes was using both their names to float some scheme. He told Allen that Hawkes had no authority to use his name. Neither Boyle nor Meiklejohn ever talked to him concerning the organization of the company.

Marquis Ito on Japan.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 3.—Senator Beveridge of Indiana returned on the Kaga Maru from a trip through Siberia. On the steamer was also Marquis Ito, former premier of Japan. Although in poor health the marquis enjoyed the ocean voyage and already feels better. He said that many things political in Japan are fast approaching a satisfactory basis, and a short time before leaving Japan the marquis was the leader in the formation of a new party of progress, called the Sei Yu Kai, which is a coalition of other and new elements and although there was some friction among the members, the party is now in a firm position, and will do much for Japan. The revised treaties are working most satisfactorily. Japan is now, he says, on most friendly terms with every nation of the world, Russia included.

Colonel Bisbee Promoted.

Washington, Oct. 3.—The president appointed Colonel Wm. H. Bisbee a brigadier-general of the regular army. He was recommended highly by Major-General Lloyd Wheaton and Major-General Arthur MacArthur for his recent service in the Philippines. He entered the service as a private of the Eighteenth infantry in 1861 and served throughout the civil war.

Taylor and Finley.

Indianapolis, Oct. 3.—Governor Durbin's mail is burdened with letters bearing on the Taylor and Finley requisitions. The governor also has received numerous telegrams from all parts of the state, and even from other states, asking him not to honor the requisitions. It is not thought probable, Secretary Wilson said, that the governor's decision on the requisitions will be reached this week. At the governor's office talk of the possibility of kidnaping Mr. Taylor or Mr. Finley is scouted. It is believed at the statehouse that both men are under surveillance of detectives hired by Kentucky parties.

FIRE FIEND.

Quite a Number of Costly Blazes at as Many Points.

Alton, Ills., Oct. 3.—Fire that broke out in the plant of the E. O. Stannard Milling company on the river front destroyed that and several other buildings, causing a loss estimated at $400,000. A high wind blew the sparks broadcast, threatening destruction of the business section of Alton, and St. Louis was asked for help. A special train carried two engine companies here, and they, with the local department, finally got the flames under control. The heaviest losers are: E. O. Stannard Milling company, $250,000; George B. Hayden, machine shop, $15,000; Farmers' elevator, $25,000, and the Model hotel, $5,000.

Spontaneous Combustion.

Corunna, Mich., Oct. 3.—Fox & Mason's furniture plant of six buildings was destroyed by fire, entailing a loss estimated at over $60,000. The insurance is only $19,500. The fire is supposed to have originated from spontaneous combustion, starting in the main factory. A gasoline tank exploded, spreading the flames to other buildings and lumber piles. Charles Wilcox was standing near the oil tank when the explosion occurred. He was buried 30 feet and will die of his injuries. George Brands and M. S. Eveleth were also badly, although not fatally, injured.

Warehouse Consumed.

Marinette, Wis., Oct. 3.—Fire destroyed the warehouse of Smith, Thordike & Brown, wholesale grocers, together with contents, entailing a loss of about $300,000. Among the goods stored was a large quantity of kerosene oil, which exploded, with damaging effect to other goods. It was with the greatest difficulty that the mills and lumber yards of the N. Ludington company were saved. The damage is partly insured.

Firemen Overcome.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 3.—Twelve firemen and two employes were overcome by smoke or injured by falling furniture at a fire in the Abernathy Furniture company's factory in the West Bottoms. The following are seriously hurt: Wm. Flynn, ladderman; Michael Dunivan, engine company; J. P. Kelly, hoseman; Frank Karnes, employe of factory. The pecuniary damage was trivial.

Stock Destroyed.

Pittsburg, Oct. 3.—The upper floors of the Pennsylvania Door and Sash company's plant on Second avenue were completely burned out. The stock destroyed was principally door and window frames. The loss will reach $50,000, well insured.

Racehorses Burned.

Springfield, Ills., Oct. 3.—In a fire which destroyed a barn on the farm of Peter Vredenburg, near Springfield, the racehorses Cutting and Lillian Brook burned to death. Cutting had a record of 2:13 and Vredenburg had refused $4,000 for him.

Anarchist Paper Barred.

Chicago, Oct. 3. — Abraham Isaak, anarchist leader and editor of Free Society, the most recent issue of which is ready for circulation, was denied, at least temporarily, the use of the United States mails for the scattering of his papers. He was told at the postoffice to file a new application, which would be referred to the postmaster general, and until a ruling shall be received from Washington the paper will be rigorously barred from the mails.

Double Lynching.

Shelbyville, Ky., Oct. 3.—Jimbo Fields, 16, and Clarence Garnett, 18, both colored, were lynched here for the alleged murder of Will C. Hart, a printer, who was stoned to death on the night of Saturday, Sept. 28, last. The boys were taken from the jail and swung from the Chesapeake and Ohio trestle, just beyond the depot and within 500 yards of the jail. The mob's work was done so quietly that no other citizen save the jailer and two or three others knew of it for several hours afterward.

Episcopal Conference Organized.

San Francisco, Oct. 3.—The triennial convention of the Episcopal church of America was formally organized by the election of Bishop Fowler of Kentucky as president and Roy S. Hart of Kansas City, secretary of the house of bishops; Dr. John S. Londsay of Massachusetts, president; Rev. Charles Hutchins, secretary, of the house of deputies.

POWERS OF THE FUTURE

Sir Robert Giffen on the Growth of Population.

GREAT INCREASE OF AMERICANS.

In the Next Generation or Two, He Says, United States Will Be a Larger International Factor Than It Is Now—Russia and Germany Moving Forward.

An address recently delivered in London to the economic science and statistics section of the British association by Sir Robert Giffen, F. R. S., has been the subject of much comment, says the New York Sun. Sir Robert took as his topic the statistics of population and urged especially the importance of studying the records of the census which have now existed in most European countries and among peoples of European origin for a century. Political ideas and speculation are, he argued, necessarily colored by ideas originating in such records, and political action, internationally and otherwise, would be all the wiser if the records were more carefully observed than they are and the lessons to be derived widely appreciated and understood.

He then took as his first broad fact the enormous increase of the population of European countries and of peoples of European origin during the nineteenth century. At the beginning of the last century this population, exclusive of South American countries and Mexico, was about 170,000,000. At its close it was about 510,000,000. Analyzing this aggregate increase, it is found that the growth of the United States alone is from a little over 5,000,000 to nearly 80,000,000 and of the English population of the British empire from about 15,000,000 to 55,000,000. Germany and Russia also show remarkable growth—from 20,000,000 to 55,000,000 in the one case and from 40,000,000 to 135,000,000 in the other—partly due to annexation, but the growth of France is no more than from 25,000,000 to 40,000,000.

The effect of this, says Sir Robert Giffen, necessarily is to assure the preponderance of European peoples among the races of the world—to put aside completely, for instance, the nightmares of yellow or black perils arising from the supposed overwhelming mass of yellow or black races, these races by comparison being stationary, or nearly so. Equally it follows that the relative position of the British empire, the United States, Russia and Germany has become such as to make them exclusively the great world powers, although France, for economic reasons, notwithstanding the stationariness of its population, may still be classed among them. When one thinks what international politics were only a hundred years ago—how supreme France then appeared, how important were Austria, Italy, Spain and even countries like Holland, Denmark and Sweden—we may surely recognize that, with a comparatively new United States on the stage and with powers like Russia and Germany come to the front, the world is all changed politically as well as economically and that new passions and new rivalries have to be considered. The figures also suggest that for some time at least the changes going on must accentuate the change that has occurred.

According to the latest figures, there is no sign that either in France or any other European country which has been comparatively stationary has any movement of population commenced which will reverse the change, while a large growth of population goes on in the leading countries named. This growth, it is alleged, is going on at a diminishing rate, but in the next generation or two there is practically no doubt that the United States will be a larger international factor then it is, both absolutely and relatively, and that Russia, Germany and the English people of the British empire will also grow, though not in such a way, apparently, as to prevent the greater relative growth of the United States and notwithstanding perhaps some relative changes of minor character among themselves. The foreign nations, then, with which the British empire is likely to be concerned in the near future are Russia, Germany and the United States, and other powers, even France, must more and more occupy a second place, although France for the moment, partly in consequence of its relations with Russia, occupies a special place.

Sir Robert Giffen then draws attention to the increasing dependence of European nations upon supplies of food and raw material obtained from abroad. What is true of the United Kingdom is true in a greater or less degree of other European countries. Especially is it true in a remarkable degree of Germany, which is becoming increasingly industrial and manufacturing and where room for expansion in agriculture is now very limited.

The import of foreign food into Germany increased in the ten years 1888-98 by just 100 per cent. The imports of raw and semimanufactured materials into Germany in the same period increased by 49 per cent. Germany and the United Kingdom are thus becoming more and more alike. What their position is to be economically and otherwise relatively to the United States, which is at once the main source of supply and a competitor with European countries in manufactures, is obviously a matter of no little interest, said Sir Robert Giffen and added:

"As a believer in free trade I am sure that nothing but good will come to all the countries concerned if trade is interfered with as little as possible by tariffs and government regulations. I believe, moreover, that the practice of free trade, whatever their theories may be, will unavoidably be accepted by all three countries before long. Obviously, however, as the new tariff in Germany indicates, there is to be a great struggle in that country before the situation is accepted, and if some of the people in this country had their way, notwithstanding our long experience of free trade and its blessings, we should even have a struggle here."

Sir Robert then considered another point of view from which these facts should be studied in the following passage:

"We are accustomed, and rightly so, I think, to consider naval preponderance indispensable to the safety of the empire and especially indispensable to the safety of the country from blockade and from the interruption of its commerce, which would be our ruin. But our position in this respect is apparently not quite exceptional. Less or more our continental neighbors and especially Germany are in the same boat. In the event of war, if they could not make up the loss by traffic over their land frontiers, they would be just as liable to suffer from blockade and interrupted commerce as we are. It is conceivable, moreover, that in certain wars some of the countries might not be able to make up by traffic over their land frontiers for blockade or interruption of commerce by sea. I should apprehend, for instance, that Germany, if it were victorious by sea in a war with France, would insist upon Belgium and Holland on one side and Italy and Spain on the other side not supplying by land to France what had been cut off by sea. One or more of these countries might be allies of Germany from the first.

"Contrariwise France and Russia, if at war with Germany and the triple alliance, might practically seal up Germany if they were successful at sea, insisting that the Scandinavian countries and Holland should not make up to Germany by land what had been cut off by sea. Germany in this view, apart from any possibility of rupture with this country, has a case for a powerful fleet. It is not quite so much liable to a blockade as we are, but there is a liability of the same kind. The question of naval preponderance among rival powers may then become rather a serious one. If preponderance is to be nearly as essential to Germany as it is to this country, who is to preponderate? What our practical action ought to be in the premises is a question that might easily lead us too far on occasion like this, but the facts should be ever present to the minds of our public men. We may be quite certain that they are quite well known and understood in the councils of the Russian, German, French and other continental governments."

BOERS TO TREK TO MEXICO?

Twenty Million Acres Said to Have Been Offered For $2,500,000.

The London Daily Express says the Boers are contemplating a trek to Mexico, estates there having been offered for a new settlement.

Part of the land is the Floreshales estate, a concession from the government of Mexico to certain financiers, one of whom is a member of the house of commons. The purchase price has been set down at $2,500,000, which will buy 20,000,000 acres, this being the aggregate of two concessions now in the hands of syndicates. The smaller of the two estates comprises 5,000,000 acres.

This land has seaboard of 200 miles and will thus offer shipping facilities which were denied to the Boers in South Africa and which they so much desired.

One of Our Ideals Shattered.

There seems no hope for one of our American ideals, writes Walter Wellman in Collier's Weekly. We have long been proud of the fact that our presidents are of the people and that they may mingle with the people without fear of harm. But this fearless practice, miscellaneous handshaking, indiscriminate receptions, unnecessary exposure of the life of the chief of the nation, must cease. So all have agreed in the councils at Buffalo. It is painful to give up a cherished national ideal, but better that than a recurrence of such a crime as that of Friday, Sept. 6.

THE BROOKLYN'S LOG

Witness For Schley Tells Why a Change Was Made.

GREAT SEA FIGHT ALSO DESCRIBED.

Nothing Known on Board the Flagship of the Secret Signal Code, According to the Testimony—Another Ruling by the Court—Developments In the Naval Inquiry.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Lieutenant James J. Doyle, who was a watch officer on board the Brooklyn, was called before the Schley court of inquiry. He was the first witness in Admiral Schley's behalf. Mr. Doyle was called by navy department, but as it also had been the purpose of Admiral Schley to summon him, advantage was taken of his presence on the stand to question him as an original witness for "the applicant." Before undergoing examination at Mr. Raynor's hands Lieutenant Doyle, at Captain Lamly's request, related his part in the battle of July 3 and his original entry in the ship's log concerning the famous loop and his alterations of that entry because he subsequently discovered that his first entry had been erroneous.

Lieutenant Commander Sharp, who commanded the Vixen during the Spanish war, also gave his testimony, giving especial attention to notes of the battle of July 3, made by Lieutenant Harlow of his ship. Admiral Evans, Captain Sigsbee and Correspondent Dienside were all recalled for the purpose of correcting their testimony. The court announced its decision not to allow any questions concerning the blockade of Santiago after July 1, when Commander-in-Chief Admiral Sampton arrived there.

Sigsbee's Correction.

Lieutenant Commander Sharp read his notes on the battle of July 3 and recounted the divers positions of the Brooklyn during the same. When the Spanish ships emerged from the harbor, witness said the Brooklyn hoisted the signal, "enemy attempting to escape." Captain Sigsbee took the stand to correct the testimony of the day before. He wished to state that it would not have been impossible to coal on May 26, 1898, but thought it would have been very dangerous. He did not and never had stated that Commodore Schley was blockading 25 miles out to sea.

Lieutenant James J. Doyle, who was watch officer on board the Brooklyn, was next called. In response to questions by Captain Lemly, Lieutenant Doyle said that during the battle off Santiago he had had charge of the two west turrets. He had, he said, written the log giving the account of the battle as there recorded, but afterwards an addenda had been made by the engineer. When the Brooklyn steamed westward, witness was first in the port turret and then in the starboard turret.

The witness then, in response to a request to the court, read that part of the log book which relates to the turning of the port helm, as follows: "At 9:30 went to quarters for muster and inspection and immediately afterwards the Spanish squadron was noticed coming out of the harbor. The leading ship, the Maria Teresa, flagship, opened fire at once. This ship (the Brooklyn) and the other vessels, namely, Texas, Oregon, Indiana, Iowa, Vixen and Gloucester, engaged the enemy at once. The enemy stood towards us at first, then put helm aport and stood alongshore close in to the westward. We engaged with port battery at first, standing in for the Maria Teresa, the Colon and the Viscaya, all three of which we engaged, but just as soon as the enemy stood to the westward put helm to port, swinging"—a little interlineation here—"clear of the fire of the Texas, so as to bring the starboard battery to bear and stood parallel to the enemy."

Change In the Log.

The witness stated that the original entry in the log had made it appear that the helm was put to starboard instead of to port, as it appears in the permanent log. The change, he said, had been made on July 5, two days after the action.

Asked why he changed it, Mr. Doyle said: "I changed it after I had a discussion with Sharp. I had been under the impression, as I have stated, after we had turned out starboard helm. Sharp was aboard the Brooklyn on July 5 to luncheon with us and I had a discussion with him that day on the subject. I think that is the time I changed it."

Mr. Raynor then asked if it were not true that the log was not due to an error on the part of the witness and to no desire upon the part of anybody to falsify the facts. "Absolutely," was the response.

Mr. Rayner then stated to the court that it was his desire to treat Lieutenant Doyle as a witness for Admiral Schley. To this the court assented and Mr. Raynor asked the witnes a series of questions calculated to bring out a brief history of the Brooklyn's part in the Santiago campaign and a full statement of his observations while an officer on board that vessel. Mr. Doyle said, among other things, that he had heard nothing of the secret code of signals arranged by Captain McCalla.

Senator Lodge to Return.

New York, Oct. 3.—In explanation of his early return to the United States, Senator Lodge is quoted as saying: "I am not only the most intimate personal friend of the president, but am his political supporter as well. I believe in him implicitly. The present situation in the United States is such that I cannot prolong my stay in Europe. There is much work to be done and I must return."

SECRETARY HAY TIRED.

Will Soon Resign From the Cabinet, His Successor.

Boulder, Colo., Oct. 3. — Lyman J. Gage, secretary of the United States treasury, arrived in this city on his way to Camp Talcott. The secretary looks well and seems in good spirits. Speaking of the rumored intention of Secretary Hay to retire from the cabinet, Mr. Gage said: "Secretary Hay is getting tired of the business. He is a man of the strictest honor. He is very sensitive, however, and it hurts him, after he has worked hard, to be misrepresented, cartooned and lampooned. He is independently rich. He can do as he wishes, go wherever he desires. He has a few very intimate friends, and he would rather enjoy his life surrounded by agreeable companions and his books than attend to the tiresome and changeless routine of the office of secretary of state. I should not be surprised if he would soon withdraw. If so, Root will probably be his successor."

Prince Chun's Parting Jolly.

Berlin, Oct. 3.—Prince Chun, before leaving German territory, sent long dispatches to Emperor William thanking him for the "gracious reception" extended to the expiatory mission, for the hospitality bestowed and the decoration conferred upon him, and expressing "a hope that the powerful German empire may promote the culture and development of China by a gracious show of mercy toward the Chinese dynasty, and that Germany will maintain the best of relations with China." He had scarcely gotten away when the news arrived that the German mission station near Tiang-Tong had been devastated by rebels. The German consul in Canton immediately requested the Chinese authorities to take steps to banish the perpetrators of the outrage.

Union Men Discharged.

Nashville, Oct. 3.—Streetcar service in Nashville is almost at a standstill, 200 of the 350 employes of the Nashville street railway company having been discharged. This is the first result of a meeting at which the men joined the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employes. As the men reported for work they were asked if they had joined the union, and those answering in the affirmative were discharged. Organization of the union was brought about by the discontent of the men over the company's action in requiring the surety bond of conductors and motormen.

Enlargement of Carnegie Plant.

Pittsburg, Oct. 3.—The enlargement of the Carnegie plant, which was decided upon before the organization of the United States Steel corporation was effected, is shortly to be made. The recent control of the Bethlehem Steel company, secured by President C. M. Schwab, is believed to mean that these two armor-plate concerns are to be held by the United States Steel corporation. The enlargement of the Carnegie plant will cost about $3,000,000. The tonnage of this plant will be nearly doubled.

Strikers Arrested.

Tampa, Fla., Oct. 3.—The police were ordered to begin a vagrancy crusade against the striking cigarmakers. Patrol wagons were kept busy and more than fifty were arrested. The men were given the privilege of returning to work in the factories or 30 days on the streets. No opposition was offered the police, but many sullen crowds were encountered and driven to the police station. The work will be continued.

Tammany's Ticket.

New York, Oct. 3.—The city committee of Tammany Hall, at a meeting last night, decided on Edward M. Shepard of Brooklyn as the Democratic candidate for mayor of Greater New York. Wm. W. Ladd, jr., was selected as the Democratic candidate for comptroller, and George M. Von Hoesen was selected as the candidate for president of the board of aldermen.

To Beat Cresceus' Record.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 3.—In a telegram to the Kentucky Trotting association declining the challenge of Thomas W. Lawson for a $5,000 match race between Boralma and Lord Derby, Harry Hamlin announces that he will start Lord Derby here during the meeting to break the world's record held by Cresceus.

Woman Run Over.

Cleveland, Oct. 3.—Mrs. Josephine Flanagan, an aged musician of Norwalk, and mother of the music teacher of President Roosevelt's children, was instantly killed by an engine at the Lake Shore crossing on Colts avenue.

Another Challenger.

Glasgow, Oct. 3. — It is said here that if the Shamrock II is not successful in the present series of races for the Americas cup, a Westcott syndicate is prepared to issue another challenge for the cup.

ROOSEVELT AND A ROOSTER

How the President Caught the Gamecock at "Old Bill" Sewall's.

Up in Island Falls, Aroostook country, lived a rugged farmer and backwoodsman familiarly known as "Old Bill" Sewall, and to his house one day in autumn about twenty-five years ago came a rather delicate youth, armed with a gun and fishing rod and looking for a place to board for a few months while he "roughed it" for the benefit of his health. The youth was Theodore Roosevelt of New York, and he was made welcome, says a dispatch from Bangor, Me., to the New York Tribune. For many weeks, accompanied by Bill Sewall and Wilbur Dow, a young man living in the neighborhood, the newcomer went hunting and fishing, and gradually color came into his face and strength to his muscles. If he was slight and rather sickly, he had plenty of grit, and he soon won the friendship and admiration of all the woodsmen in the Island Falls section. They said that, although at first sight the young tourist "didn't look as if he'd pull through," he was game to the backbone, and if sticking to it was any help they thought he might turn out all right after all.

Many stories are told by those who remember Roosevelt's visit of his courage and persistency. One day when, with Sewall and the rest, he went on a long tramp through the woods after deer he was much exhausted on the way home, and some one offered to carry his rifle for him. Roosevelt almost indignantly declined the proffered assistance, and, although almost ready to drop in his tracks from weariness, he clung to his rifle and struggled through to the end of the journey. On another occasion he had a long chase after a game rooster that had escaped from its coop and pursued the bird through the village streets, over fences and through yards until finally it flew into an open window in the second story of a house. Nothing daunted, Roosevelt got a ladder and climbed into the house, presently emerging with the fowl squalling and struggling in his arms. He had actually crawled under an old woman's bed to get that rooster.

When Roosevelt went west to become a ranchman, he took Bill Sewall and Wilbur Dow along with him and kept them in his employ for some years. Dow died in the west, but Sewall came back to Maine and is still living at Island Falls, where he delights to tell of the days he spent with Theodore Roosevelt. He says that at the time of the chase and capture of the gamecock an aged settler of Island Falls, admiring the persistency and determination of young Roosevelt, said, "That young feller'll be president some day if he lives."

The President on True Americanism.

President Roosevelt was once asked for an opinion on what he termed true Americanism. The reply, which he incorporated in one of his books, is as follows, says the Chicago Tribune:

"I have no wish to excuse or hide our faults, for I hold that he is often the best American who strives hardest to correct American shortcomings. Nevertheless I am just as little disposed to give way to undue pessimism as to undue and arrogant optimism. In speaking to my own countrymen there is one point upon which I wish to lay special stress. That is the necessity for a feeling of broad, radical, intense Americanism if good work is to be done in any direction. Above all, the one essential for success in every political movement which is to do lasting good is that our citizens should act as Americans; not as Americans with a prefix and qualification, not as Irish-Americans, German-Americans, native Americans, but as Americans pure and simple."

UNFURLED DIXIE'S FLAG

President Roosevelt's Mother Defied New York Crowd.

HUSBAND'S ENTREATIES FAILED.

In Spite of Them the Flag Remained. An Incident of the Civil War Showing Where the New Chief Magistrate of the Nation Gets His Indomitable Will.

Through the paternal branch of the ancestral tree may have flown some of the sap that gave President Roosevelt his indomitable spirit, but certain it is that the maternal branch was rich in that quality that marked the Bullochs of Georgia for their resolution, pertinacity and strength of will. No better exponent of those traits could be found than Martha Bulloch Roosevelt, the mother of the president.

Not long after the civil war Mrs. Roosevelt was on a visit to Savannah, Ga., where she had many friends, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. She was a Georgia woman of distinguished ancestry, the Bulloch family being one of the best in the state and its representatives having served with distinction in the highest positions. It was but natural, therefore, that she should have been well received upon her visit to Savannah and that there should have been rare pleasure to her, an unreconstructed Confederate, in her intercourse with her own people, those who had fought and bled upon the field of battle or fought the greater fight of waiting and watching.

Reunion with her southern friends after the years of the war that she had spent at her home in New York was a pleasure to Mrs. Roosevelt, and it was with the keenest relish that she recounted stories of the times and of the trials that she suffered in the city of her adoption through her unswerving loyalty to the cause of the south, a cause in which one brother, Irvine L. Bulloch, fought as an officer aboard the cruiser Alabama and which another brother represented at England's capital city. One of these stories clearly revealed the character of the woman and leaves little difficulty in determining whence the president gets some of those qualities that have tended to his preferment.

It was at a dinner given in Mrs. Roosevelt's honor by Mrs. Henrietta S. Coben that she told the story. Of late years, because of Theodore Roosevelt's rapid advancement, it has been recalled by his mother's old friends, who feel pride in having known the mother of the president and gladly ascribe to her some of the traits that are seen in the son.

It was just when the spirit of peace, uncertain as to whether it should alight, was hovering over the land. Theodore Roosevelt the elder decided at about that time to give some great social function. The Roosevelt mansion was accordingly bravely decked in bunting and with American flags. From every window save one flew the stars and stripes. That one was of Mrs. Roosevelt's boudoir. Her husband had not desired to omit it from the decorative scheme, but she would have none of it. Instead she hit upon a plan that would clearly reveal her sentiments.

Stopping not to consider the peril in which it might place her and her husband, but determined to show that all in the house were not of the cause of the north, she drew from among her most cherished treasures the stars and bars, the emblem of the south. Going to the window, she firmly fixed its staff and allowed its folds to flutter from the breeze.

On the instant almost the hostile ensign was noted. A passerby in the street below descried it. In hot indignation he pointed it out to another. As mobs will, so one began to grow, and soon the street was choked with angry people who shook threatening fists at the Confederate flag and inveighed most bitterly.

Alarmed by the gathering that was swelled every moment and that directed its wrath against his home, Theodore Roosevelt sought the cause that had stirred the people to anger. He was not long in finding it. Fierce acclaim directed his gaze, which rested upon the fluttering emblem of the south. The Roosevelt nature has never quailed before a crowd. Theodore the elder saw that imminent danger could probably be averted only through his persuading his wife to remove the objectionable flag. With a word to the crowd he left, entered the house and found his wife. He told her what she already knew—that the anger of the mob had been excited by her indiscreet display of her colors and that it would be well for her to take in the flag.

"I shall not do so," declared the mother of the president. "The flag is mine. The boudoir is mine. I love the flag, for it represents my native land. No ruffian hand shall invade the privacy of my boudoir to drag down that flag, nor shall ruffian shouts force me to remove it from the window of a room that is wholly mine. Explain to them that I am a southern woman; that I love the south. Do anything you like except touch that flag. It shall not come down."

And it did not. Theodore Roosevelt went again to face the crowd. He made a speech, dwelling with finesse upon his wife's love for her own land and molding the mob to his will and to an indulgence of Mrs. Roosevelt in her desire to fly the flag of her beloved south.

The crowd dispersed, but the story remains to show a maternal quality that has made a president.

A WEIRD SEA FIGHTER.

New Type of Submergible Boat Modeled at Elizabethport, N. J.

A new type of submarine boat is being experimented with at Lewis Nixon's shipyard at Elizabethport, N. J., which, if it comes up to expectations, will be entirely free from the drawbacks in the submarine boats of today, says the New York Commercial Advertiser. The models of two boats are being built now and will soon be tested to see what speed can be obtained from them.

These boats are 220 feet long by 24 feet beam, and their cross section is a very peculiar one. They have a round bottom, the sides are round up to a few feet above the water line, where they are pulled in quickly to form what is called the citadel, which rises like an oblong box out of the center of the ship. This citadel is armored with six inches of plate. These boats will be furnished with three engines, working three screws and capable of generating 3,000 horsepower apiece and able to drive the ship at a speed of twenty-five knots per hour. Steam will be supplied by six boilers of the Mosher type and to work under a pressure of about 300 pounds.

The main feature is that under ordinary conditions they will float on a normal water line, giving them a freeboard of about seven feet. When it is desired to go into action, they will be submerged by letting water into ballast tanks in the bottom of the ship, which will then float with a freeboard of only three feet, leaving only the citadel above water. The efficiency of the boat will not be affected should a shot pass through this citadel.
